WOUNDS PROVED FATAL

RECEIVED BY A. L. WAGAMAN
WHILE DEER HUNTING.

Tetanus Developed in Wound in the Right Leg Where Shot and Death
Quickly Followed.

Alphonse L. Wagaman died at his home at Square Corner, near Bonneauville, Adams county, Sunday afternoon from lockjaw which developed Thursday from wounds he had sustained Dec. 2, the first day of the deer hunting season. The fatal shot was fired by his son, Lewis Wagaman, who was not in any way to blame. The Wagamans, father and son, together with a party of other men from in and about Square Corner, made an early trip to the mountains on the morning of December 2. Shortly after dawn they had the fortune to cripple a fine buck. The deer was not sufficiently wounded to stop its flight but they thought it was located near the spot of the shooting. Lewis Wagaman told his father to remain where he was while he, Lewis made a detour in an endeavor to locate the animal. For some reason the father decided to leave his post and was approaching Lewis when the latter mistook his form in the brush for that of the deer and fired. The shot went through the right leg just below the knee. It was immediately seen that the wound was of a serious nature and Mr. Wagaman was taken to the office of Dr. Woerner, in Cashiers, where he was given treatment and then taken to his home where he had since been under care of Dr. A. C. Rice, of McSherrystown. He was getting along well until Thursday when he developed symptoms of tetanus. Treatment was given but he failed to respond and his death occurred Sunday afternoon. Mr. Wagaman was aged 50 years, 4 months and 22 days. He was a son of John and Louise Wagaman. On April 30, 1889, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Redding, a daughter of Joseph H. Redding, of Gettysburg, whom he leaves, together with three sons Lewis Wagaman, of Square Corner; Harry Wagaman, of McSherrystown; and Bernard Wagaman, of Baltimore. He also leaves his mother, Mrs. Louise Wagaman, of McSherrystown, and the following brothers and sisters: Frank Wagaman, of Paradise; Mrs. Peter Neiderer, of Conewago; Mrs. Frank Weaver, of McSherrystown; John Wagaman, of Hanover; Mrs. Harry Niederer, Pius Wagaman and Claude Wagaman, of McSherrystown. He followed the trade of cigar-making and owned and conducted a factory at his residence in Square Corner. He was a Democrat and had served his party a number of times as county committeeman. The funeral was held on Wednesday in St. Joseph's Church, Bonneauville, where a solemn requiem high mass was observed. Rev. Dr. Nichols, pastor of the church, was the celebrant; Rev. W. F. Boyle, of Gettysburg, Deacon; and Rev. Fr. O'Callahan, of Littlestown, sub-deacon. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

The County is being canvassed for Christmas members. There seem to be those who joined during the year who do not understand that the time to renew membership fee of $1.00 is now. Three days canvassing has resulted in 2050 members, several hundred of which are new. The membership in the county has been over 5000, and should be twice that size with an adult population of about 15,000.

JOIN THE RED CROSS

It Is Humanity's Call Out of the Travail of War

The Red Cross in the future is to administer unto mankind whenever and wherever the distress call goes out. It is a small answer to the old question that you are your brother's keeper. It is the concrete thing that you do not live entirely unto yourself. The time is here when no one is able to explain to him or herself or to his or her neighbors why he or she is not a member of the Red Cross.

There will be no more Red Cross War Fund Drives. All memberships hereafter date from the time of Good Will to Men. The joining each year starts now at the Christmas time. It makes no difference the time of the year you joined before. You want to renew now at the time for which all memberships will be dated, the Christmas time. Renewals will only be sought and the $1.00 fee collected in December. Become now the Merry Christmas Red Cross Member.

DEER HUNTING SEASON PRESIDENT IS IN FRANCE

COVERED BUT EIGHT DAYS HE PLEASES ALL ALLIES WITH HIS FIRST SPEECH.

150 Bucks Killed—Smallest Number Right and Justice to Insure the Future Peace of the World.

Killed in the Last Four Years.

The big game season in Adams county did not come up to former years, only one hundred and forty-nine bucks were killed and the army of hunters which invaded the South Mountains claim the season was not as successful as 1915, 1916 or 1917 (when 313, 242 and 205 were killed). The last week of the season had three rainy days and nearly all the clubs left the mountains on Saturday, Dec. 14.

There were only eight days of actual hunting. During that time some of the successful clubs from this locality were McKnightstown with six deer to their credit, Brysonia with two, Marsh Creek with three, Kane's with six deer, Bendersville five, New Oxford two, New Chester two, Hanover-McSherrystown two, Pepple Camp two, Kane boys two, Shepherd Club two, Green Ridge Club two, Taylor Bunch Warren Club-Monterey one, Cashtown one, Sparta one, Mt. Joy one, Social Island one, Camp Eighteen two, Arentsville one, Taylor Camp one, Camp at Newman's one, Camp one, Camp at Newman's one, Irvin's one.

The Savage Gun Club, Mt. Alto, shot six bucks the first week and secured six deer on Monday, Dec. 9. The McAllister Camp near Hunter's Run secured six deer, and the South Fairview Club one. Individual hunters secured seventy-eight deer, and one of the largest bucks killed was a fourteen pointer, killed by a sixteen year old boy, Charles Peifer, of Goodyear. He secured his prize near Pine Grove Furnace.

Abram L. Stahley, of Mt. Alto, shot his twenty-seventh buck on Monday, Dec. 2.

A few wild turkeys were seen in different sections of the mountains during the season.

armies of the Central Empires with the same repulsion and deep indignation that they stir in the hearts of the men of France and Belgium, and I appreciate, as you do, sir, the necessity of such action in the final settlement of the issues of the war as will not only rebuke such acts of terror and spoilage, but make men everywhere aware that they cannot be ventured upon without the certainty of just punishment.

I know with what ardor and enthusiasm the soldiers and sailors of the United States have given the best that was in them to this war of redemption. They have expressed the true spirit of America. They believe their ideals to be acceptable to free peoples everywhere, and are rejoiced to have played the part they have played in giving reality to those ideals in co-operation with the armies of the Allies. We are proud of the part they have played, and we are happy that they should have been associated with such comrades in a common cause.

It is with peculiar feeling, Mr. President, that I find myself in France joining with you in rejoicing over the victory that has been won. The ties that bind France and the United States are peculiarly close. I do not know in what other comradeship we could have fought with more zest or enthusiasm. It will daily be a matter of pleasure with me to be brought into consultation with the statesmen of France and her allies in concerting the measures by which we may secure permanence for these happy relations of friendship and co-operation, and secure for the world at large such safety and freedom in its life as can be secured only by the constant association and co-operation of friends.

I greet you not only with deep personal respect, but as the representative of the great people of France, and beg to bring you the greetings of another great people to whom the fortunes of France are of profound and lasting interest.

I raise my glass to the health of the President of the French Republic and to Mme. Poincare and the prosperity of France.

Mr. President: I am deeply indebted to you for your gracious greeting. It is very delightful to find myself in France and to feel the quick contact of sympathy and unaffected friendship between the representatives of the United States and the representatives of France.

You have been very generous in what you were pleased to say about myself, but I feel that what I have said and what I have tried to do has been said and done only in an attempt to speak the thought of the people of the United States truly, and to carry that thought out in action.

From the first, the thoughts of the people of the United States turned toward something more than the mere winning of this war. It turned to the establishment of eternal principles of right and justice. It realized that merely to win the war was not enough; that it must be won in such a way and the question raised by it settled in such a way as to insure the future peace of the world and lay the foundations for the freedom and happiness of its many peoples and nations.

Never before has war worn so terrible a visage or exhibited more grossly the debasing influence of all ambitions. I am sure that I shall look upon the ruin wrought by the Cut Out the Jumps!

Have you "the jitters"—or other manifestations of nervousness? Are you easily confused or startled at unexpected noises or sounds? Do you worry or fret over trifles? Then look to your nerves. Something is radically wrong with them.

Upset nervous conditions usually result from some exhausted or impaired bodily organ, which does not properly give its allotted service. Go after the offender through that great recuperative center of the body—your stomach. Ask your druggist for DR. CHARLES TONIC TABLETS. They are the very best of preparations to soothe and smooth the racked and exhausted nerves of nervous prostration victims. Those who are debilitated; those who suffer from the groaning burden of liver and kidney trouble, will once more turn toward health, by using this splendid formula.

The great wreckers of women's delicately balanced nervous systems, as exemplified in the special ills peculiar to their sex—will be quickly relieved by DR. CHARLES TONIC TABLETS, which also present the gift of rich red blood to the anemic. The TONIC will also go far to arrest and vanish dyspepsia and many wasting diseases that lead to consumption.

There are no "jitters" to DR. CHARLES TONIC TABLETS—and they will achieve marvellous recuperative results, where other tonics and toning agents such as iron, strichnine, arsenic, cod liver oil, etc., often fail. Safe and pleasant to take.

GIVE YOUR MOTOR THE HY-SIGN

THEN WATCH IT PICK UP AND HUSTLE, SURE DEATH TO CARBON!

Friend Autoist: We don't have to tell you anything about carbon, the great standard motor curse which you "cuss out," but seldom entirely cut out of your motor. At that carbon is great stuff—in its place. Thus it may be life to the electric light—while it is death to gasoline motor efficiency.

You should do what thousands of satisfied autoists do. They give their motors HY-SIGN CARBON REMOVER and find it is sure death to carbon.

HY-SIGN improves the quality of your "gas," giving 25% to 40% more mileage on same amount of gasoline—thus making for greater increased efficiency and economy these war times of high gasoline prices.

Give your dealer the HIGH SIGN. Then give your motor the HY-SIGN. And note how gratefully it gives you its very best of speed power and mileage.

HY-SIGN has proved all that is claimed for it by exhaustive tests.

BOX CONTAINING 24 CUBES, $1. Good for 120 gallons of gasoline. ASK YOUR DEALER or send to

Baldness
Conquered

RECIPE MAILED FREE

A veteran business man, who was almost completely bald and had tried numerous tonics, lotions, shampoos, etc., without benefit, came across, while on a journey, an Indians' recipe by which he grew a complete crop of healthy, luxuriant hair that he now possesses.

Others—men and women—have reported remarkable hair growth by the same method. Whoever wishes the recipe may obtain it free by writing to John Hart Brittain, 1A-222, Station F, New York, N. Y. Or obtain a box of the ointment, Katalko, made according to the perfected recipe, at the drug store, ready for use.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

In a vast number of cases, when hair falls out, the roots are not dead, but remain embedded in the scalp, alive like seeds or bulbs, needing only fertility. The usual alkaline shampoos, alcoholized hair tonics, etc., are of no avail in such cases. The Indians' ointment nourishes the hair and stimulates the growth.

Katalko fortifies the scalp and induces hair growth in every case possible; wonderful results reported. For men, women and children hair. If you are bald, or losing hair, or have dandruff, you should try Katalko. It is a pleasure to observe the starting of new hair and its steady increase until a prolific growth supersedes thin hair or baldness. Cut out this notice; show to others who want beautiful hair. The recipe is free. This is genuine.

How to Sift Ashes.

Shake the sifter until all the dust-like particles fall through. You will then have left in your sifter a mixture of black and white-covered pieces of coal and probably a few clinkers and pieces of stone.

Pick out and throw away all stone.

Do not throw away clinkers unless they are thoroughly burned.

Coal will often fuse in such a manner that the part in the center is not burned.

Break clinkers apart, and if there is any black substance in them it is carbon, and they can be burned over again.

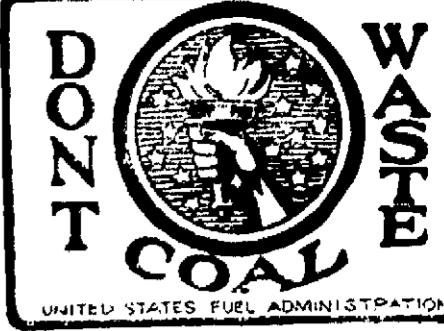

White chunks generally contain a large amount of carbon, though their covering might be soft and have the appearance of ashes. Do not throw them away.

Coal thus recovered should be spread on the ground and sprinkled with water. This will open the seams in the coal, and when it is placed in the heater the fire will reach and ignite the unused carbon.

It is better not to mix the coal thus reclaimed with fresh coal. Keep it in a separate pile.

Reclaimed coal should generally be used on a red hot fire, although it can also be used in banking a fire at night.

SIFTING FURNACE,
STOVE, GRATE ASH,
SAVES MUCH FUEL

U. S. Fuel Administration Urges
Reclamation of All Waste to Aid Fuel Situation.

Thousands of tons of coal can be reclaimed and proportionate dollars saved in fuel bills if the householder of the nation will adopt the simple, homely method of sifting their ashes. About five bucketfuls of coal are thrown away in the ashes each week by the wasteful householder. Each bucketful weighs about nineteen pounds, and fresh nut coal sold by the bucketful costs about 16 cents each. If this coal is reclaimed by sifting the ashes, it would represent a saving of 80 cents a week and conserve just so much coal for the dealer to supply other householders. The United States Fuel Administration gives the following directions for reclaiming coal from ashes:

97 JIMON SIMPLE'S FIRST LESSONS IN CLOWNISM

Cynthia White —Pest

By VINCENT G. PERRY

Copyright, 1913, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

With a quip jerk Horace Sangster pulled his life from the water, and then cried out with disgust. The fish, all there had been one, had got away. Three hours without a catch—it was enough to annoy a man with normal nerves, and Horace was far from that. He drew in his line angrily and attempted to wind it up, but something had gone wrong with his reel. That was the last straw. He sat down on a rock and swore.

The sound of the word startled him. He had not sworn for years. His nerves were certainly making a wreck of him. The solitude of the place was aggravating him, too. They had told him the simple camp life, with lots of fishing, would make a new man of him. Such foolish! Why, there was hardly a thing about it that did not make him feel worse.

This was the second day, and he was going to make it his last. To begin with, he had had trouble pitching his tent. The storm in the night had kept him up keeping out the rain. Every crack of the bushes or sound of the birds in the trees caused him to start uneasily. It was nearly as nerve-wracking as an afternoon session with the fourth-year class. The thought of the four-year girls irritated him the more. They had been the cause of his breakdown; he felt confident the months he had looked with dread for the hour each afternoon that he was forced to teach them mathematics. They were just silly, thoughtless girls, and would not have been so hard to put up with had it not been for their wretched Cynthia White.

Without exaggeration Cynthia was the worst girl he had ever had under his tuition. Her main object in life seemed to be to torment the professor of mathematics. Something always turned up for her to argue about or bang over. There was always something for her to ridicule, and she never missed an opportunity to make him feel meek—perhaps because she was so large and he was so small.

As he sat there thinking it over, Horace made up his mind he had been foolish. It would have been easy to have arranged for her dismissal from the college. Why hadn't he done it? There was something he liked about Cynthia, in spite of everything. The spirit of fun behind those twinkling black eyes of hers appealed to him, and the warmth of her laugh made him long for something—something that was not in his life.

Suddenly the laugh sounded close beside him. He nearly toppled into the water from the shock it gave him. He turned quickly to confront Cynthia, a little way off her eyes bulging over with merriment. After rubbing his eyes to make sure he was seeing aright, Horace smiled forth a greeting. Even the pest of his life was welcome in that solitude.

"Oh, Mr. Sangster, you look so funny there!" she laughed. "If the girls could only see you in your bare feet!"

"Heaven!" Horace tried to hide his feet behind a log. He had forgotten that he had taken off his shoes and socks to wade a creek.

"Don't be alarmed," she smiled encouragingly. "I am going to take off my shoes, too. One can't fish well with shoes on. How do you like my costume?"

She was clad in khaki from head to toe, and her hair was hanging in curls over her shoulders. He had never realized how beautiful she was before.

"Love! Tom look peachy," he murmured, admiringly, not realizing that he had used the word "peachy" for the first time since he had got his degree.

That encouraged Cynthia to take a seat beside him. Not that she needed encouragement, for she would have sat there sooner or later. It did not take Horace long to forget that he was a college professor and she was a mere student. Soon they were chatting gaily.

Her home was near by and she had spent every summer fishing in that stream for years. She led him to a place where he was "sure to catch something, no matter how poor an angler he was." When his luck remained poor and he still made vain attempts to land a trout, Cynthia did not fail to laugh at him and assure him that he was as funny as he could be.

Somehow it did not bother him to be laughed at out there. The air seemed to have got into his blood and given him a sense of humor that responded to her with ridicule. He was not long in catching onto the right way to draw the line, and before the afternoon was over he was catching as many trout as Cynthia. When they parted he had gained her promise to search him out the next day.

Camping agreed with him after that. Fishing was the most wonderful sport in the world when one had a companion like Cynthia, he decided after two weeks of glorious days. Nerves? Why, he had forgotten he had such things!

They would have still stayed out of his mind had it not been that a rainy day broke in on them. It made it necessary to stay in his tent and try and spend the day reading, wondering all the while what Cynthia was doing.

"Making fun of him, most likely—the thought came to him quickly and left him staggering. Perhaps she was.

Perhaps she had spent all those days with him just to have something to tell the fourth-year girls when she went back to college. He would have to resign.

It would be just like Cynthia to do it—but would it? This new Cynthia was not a bit like the old Cynthia who had made his life miserable. But as the rain kept up his mind became more unsettled, and before the night was over he had made up his mind that Cynthia had been making a fool of him.

The next day he still thought it. When Cynthia appeared he hardly spoke. She saw at once her presence was not welcome. With a toss of her head she started up the bank and forded the stream some way up. After fishing alone for some time Horace realized that he had been a fool. Cynthia was too fine a girl to be insulted like that. He would find her and make amends. He started in the direction she had taken and attempted to ford the stream where he imagined she had crossed. The spot he chose appeared quite shallow from the bank, but as he reached the center, he stepped into a deep hole and sank out of sight.

Cynthia looked up just in time and with a cry jumped into the water and made for the spot. When he came up for the first time she was there to catch him and a couple of strokes took them to safety. His body remained limp in her grasp, and as she dragged him over to the bank and placed him on the grass, the pallor of his cheeks alarmed her. He lay quite still. She placed her ears to his breast and then cried out with fright. "It's dead!" Madly she tried to shake him back to life, and then she seemed to lose her senses.

"Oh, Horace!" she cried. "Oh, Horace, don't die. There is so much I want to ask for. I confess, I was just beginning to know you and like you, Horace—like you so much. Horace! Please open your eyes. I have been such a wretch to tease you. Oh, dearest Horace, open your eyes!"

And Horace did. He could not sham any longer after being called "dearest Horace."

Cynthia's hysteria vanished when she discovered he was alive. She was very angry at first when he confessed he had not been hurt at all and was conscious all the time, but her sense of humor came to the rescue and she joined in his laugh.

"Please call me dearest Horace again," he said as he reached out for her hand. But Cynthia would not until he had told her how much he loved her and how miserable he would be without her.

"Dear old pest," he said just before the kiss that sealed their engagement.

As Hostess It Was Said of Her With Truth That She Delighted in Contrasts.

WASTED HOT WATER IS SO MUCH COAL THROWN OUTDOORS

Almost without exception domestic water is provided in the cities of the east by pumping plants which burn coal.

Therefore, any of the hundred ways in which we habitually and commonly waste water is a direct waste of coal.

So far as cold water is concerned, this is a very small waste indeed, but it is a much more serious matter where hot water is concerned, the United States Fuel Administration points out.

A leaky tap on a hot water pipe will waste several gallons of water—and several pounds of coal—in an hour.

SEE THAT ALL YOUR WATER PIPES AND FAUCETS ARE WITHOUT LEAKS.

A little careful supervision in the kitchen will often cut in half the quantity of hot water used, with an obvious saving in coal.

Likewise, many of us are spendthrifts when we get into a bathtub and use two or three times as much water as necessary for a perfectly good bath.

Don't let the water run after you have enough in the tub for a bath.

The best way of assuring yourself of plenty of domestic fuel this winter is by the use of wood. Cut wood on holidays and in your spare time and save anthracite.

A few men were put into the barracks of an older company at Great Lakes. One of those boys snored so loudly that the next day the boys planned to get even. That night when his snoring commenced one boy got at each end of the hammock and began to raise and lower it. The boy, waking up much dazed, screamed: "Oh, ma, I wish I'd taken your advice and gone into the army. I didn't know I'd get so sickish!"
